By the wisdom of his own acts, President Arthur will be placed in the presidential field in 1884.

New Hampshire came very near giving the country a remarkable instance of an office seeking the man.

The slayer of Carey has been committed on charge of murder. There is no question that he will be hanged.

Governor Rusk has received the resignation of Gilbert L. Park, judge of the seventh judicial circuit. This action has been taken on account of ill health.

The condition of things in Egypt, so far as the cholera is concerned, is more hopeful. There have been fewer deaths during the past twenty-four hours, and the disease is not spreading.

The Ohio democrats do not want any more correspondence between Judge Hoadly and Governor Foster. Foster was too much loaded for the democrats and the discharge hurt them terribly.

While the leaders in the telegraphic strike are firm in the belief that the boys will win in the strike, there are no indications that the company will accede to the demands of the operators. The country hopes that Jay Gould will be beaten, but the chances seem to be against that hope.

Aside from free trade and protection there is no issue between the democrats and republicans in Pennsylvania—in fact this may apply to the parties in other states—and therefore it has been said that the difference between a Pennsylvania protection democrat and a republican seems to be the difference between two bay mules.

A sort of a canvass has been made by both parties in Ohio, and the republicans claim a majority of 25,335 next October, and the democrats claim 19,220. Majorities on paper are easily obtained, and the figuring of both parties shows how widely different are the estimates of the canvassers. Nothing but a canvass of the votes cast can be relied upon, although the chances are that the republicans will carry the state.

In regard to the condition of ex-Congressman Hazelton, the Boscobel Dial says: "Hon. Geo. C. and Mrs. Hazelton returned home on Saturday morning. Mrs. Hazelton was looking remarkably well, while Mr. Hazelton showed the effects of the injuries received, and from which he has been so long confined. He is still dependent upon his crutches to get about, but hopes, with the rest he expects to obtain at home, to recover more rapidly than he has done."

Visitors at Geneva Lake will find much interest in reading the "Cisco," published at Lake Geneva by Mr. J. E. Heg. It is published expressly for the benefit of the visitors to that famous resort, and the local and personal gossip it contains each week is of such a bright and interesting a character, that visitors should not fail to read it. Mr. Heg prints a large edition of the "Cisco" each Saturday so that all can be supplied. It is more popular this year than ever because the people are beginning to understand its real worth. It is handsomely printed and in every respect shows industry and ability.

The senatorial contest in New Hampshire has finally ended in the election of the Hon. A. F. Pike. The struggle has been a long one, and in some respects a very unpleasant one, but the following dispatch to President Arthur, shows that the party came out of the contest in good shape:

Senator Austin F. Pike is a tried and true republican of worth and eminence. The republican party of New Hampshire is united, courageous and invincible.

W. E. CHANDLER.

Mr. Pike is 64 years of age, and is a lawyer by profession. He has been a member of the New Hampshire legislature for a number of years, serving in both branches, and was also elected to the forty-third congress. He is a man of good ability, and as Secretary Chandler says, is a thorough republican.

There is no doubt that a great number of suits will grow out of the bungling way the Western Union telegraph company did business immediately after the strike. The service was exceedingly bad in many cities, which proved quite a loss to business. We learn from the Milwaukee paper that P. V. V. Platto, a lawyer of that city, has brought suit against the Western Union telegraph company to recover $100 for delay in sending telegraph messages. On the morning of the 27th of July, Platto, having business before Judge Sloan, at Waukesha, missed the train at Milwaukee and at 9:45 o'clock in the morning of that day he sent a telegram to the judge stating that he would start for Waukesha in the afternoon. In the meantime, Judge Sloan had adjourned court, after issuing several orders which Platto's presence would have prevented, and he telegraphed to Platto at noon of the same day, June 27th, that he had done so. Platto did not receive this message until 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the next day, in consequence of which he made a useless and unnecessary trip to Waukesha, besides being put to considerable trouble in having the orders issued on June 27th revoked. He proposes to make the company pay for his time and expense wasted in this case, and there will likely be other suits instituted against the company for the delay in transmitting messages.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company has recently issued a handsome book entitled, "A Reconnaissance of the Golden Northwest," which in beauty of typography and elegance of illustration, has never been surpassed by any guide book ever before published under the auspices of a railway company. The text was written by one of the brightest and most competent men in this state. He has been at all the lakes and all the resorts in Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota that are reached by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company, and has written about them in such a plain, chatty and interesting style that the book will prove a valuable companion to every one who seeks pleasure in the thousand and one attractive resorts in the Northwest. Beside the story-telling about the places, there are numerous illustrations drawn by Mr. Joseph Flemming, of Buffalo, New York, who is not even second to Mr. Thomas Moran, as a landscape artist. The illustrations are certainly an admirable feature of the book, because they are true to nature and therefore of some practical value. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company has done pleasure-seekers a rare service by preparing this attractive book for their guide during their rambles this summer.

Harvesting is progressing rapidly in all parts of the northwest, and in another week the crops will have been secured. In this section of the country the wheat is very good though its value is of small importance compared with other crops in southern Wisconsin. The rye is good and the barley crop is the largest and best that has been raised for years. There were 26,481 acres grown in Rock county this year, and the number of bushels which this acreage will produce will not be far short of 700,000, nearly 125,000 more than last year. The oat crop will not be be as great as was expected on account of the rust. This will be a disappointment to many farmers as the oat crop is of considerable significance in Rock county. There were over 53,000 acres sown this year, and the total yield should have been 1,500,000 bushels, but it is evident that it will fall far below this amount. The corn crop is plodding along fairly in some localities, but the cool weather of late has generally retarded its growth. On the whole the grain product of the country will be much better than was expected in early summer. The cold wet weather gave almost everybody the blues, and a total failure of the crops was frequently predicted, but the present harvest strengthens the faith of the people in the declaration of the scriptures that while the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest shall not cease.

The State Journal recently made a canvass of the presidential question in this state, by sending out two hundred circulars to the responsible editors of the press, and up to the time of making the canvass public, 166 responses had been received. These answers were divided up as follows:

Republican	91
Democratic	25
Independent	21
Prohibitionist	3

The republican papers voted as follows on their first choice for president, which shows that General Fairchild is the favorite candidate:

Fairchild	39
Blaine	12
Arthur	11
Edmunds	9
Lincoln	3
W. T. Sherman	2

The second choice was given as follows:

Arthur	10
Blaine	18
Edmunds	10
Fairchild	9
Lincoln	4
John Sherman	2
Ben. Harrison	2

The democratic papers were "up a stump" on the presidential question. It is a very delicate thing to ask a democrat who he wants for president. The men who rule the party and control the opinions of the masses in that party, have not decided among themselves as to the candidate, and therefore it could not be expected that the Wisconsin democratic papers thus early in the season could express a firm opinion. However, a few did vote on the question, and here is the first choice:

Tilden	7
Bayard	3
Vilas	2

The question of second choice is given as follows:

McDonald	3
Bayard	2
Cleveland	2

From the above it does not seem that Colonel Vilas, one of the most brilliant men in the state, has not the support of his own party papers. While the republicans dare stand by Fairchild the democrats hesitate to show their zeal for Vilas.

On the tariff question the republican papers voted as follows:

Protection straight	48
Free trade	20
For revenue only	5
Low tariff until out of debt, and then free trade	2
Reformed protective tariff	3
The present law	1

The democratic papers generally voted for a revenue tariff only, which is free trade in effect. On the license question the republican papers voted thus: Seventy nine republican papers are in favor of this side of the question; seven favor prohibition, and two no license whatever. Eight democratic papers voted for high license.

CRIME'S REWARD.

Hanging of a Colored Murderer at Richmond, Virginia.

Account of the Crime---The Prisoner's Paramour---His Bearing on the Scaffold.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 4.—Charles Henry Lee, colored, was hanged for the murder of Daniel Miller, another colored man, in Henrico county, Virginia, last February. During his confinement he professed religion, and was baptised. At his request, a prayer-meeting was held in his cell, which lasted until after midnight. At 9 in the morning another prayer-meeting was begun, lasting until 11 o'clock. This was participated in by about twenty-five colored people and the prisoner's paramour, Barbara Miller, under sentence of death for participation in Lee's crime. Barbara again visited Lee's cell, and assisted him in putting on a pair of white gloves she bought for him to wear on his journey to the New Jerusalem. She then kissed him and was removed from the cell. At the scaffold there was another prayer meeting and more preaching. Lee made an address, advising all not to be led off into wickedness as he had been, and those who had children to raise them so that they would not fall from grace. He thanked God he had time to prepare himself. He now felt he was fit to die. His death was a speedy one. Before the body was cut down the sheriff mounted the scaffold and informed the crowd in the yard that a collection would be taken up to enable the parents of Lee to remove the remains to their home. Some of the 5,000 people outside the jail-yard seized long ladders reaching to the top of the prison-wall, and were thus enabled to have a full view of the execution.

On the 14th of February the body of Daniel Miller, a respectable colored man, was found on the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad, mangled almost beyond recognition. It was at first supposed that his death was accidental, but the fact leaked out that the wife of the murdered man had been living in unlawful relations with Charles Henry Lee, colored, and she and Lee were arrested. Examination proved that the body of Miller had been dragged from his house near the railroad to the track and laid on the rails, and the passing train had cut it in twain. The suspicious circumstances connected with the crime strongly pointed to Lee and the wife of the deceased as his slayer. Shortly after their incarceration in the Henrico county jail Barbara Miller made a confession to the jailer, in which she declared that Lee killed her husband with an ax. Lee was put on trial first. The principal witness for the prosecution was Barbara. She related in her evidence all the circumstances connected with the murder. On the night of the tragedy, she said that Lee induced her husband to go out of the house, and when in the yard knocked him down with an ax and killed him. The two—the man and the woman—then dragged the body to the railroad track and placed it on the rails, so that the next train might run over it and so mangle it as to prevent their work from being recognized. The woman claimed that her part in the crime was unwillingly performed, but that she consented to render the desired assistance to her paramour to keep both of them out of trouble. Some portion of the woman's evidence was corroborated by her mother, an old negress who lived in the house with Miller and his wife. According to the wife's account, the provocation for the murder was bad blood between her husband and Lee, growing out of a denounciation of the latter by the former. Lee was a boarder in the house of the Millers. He was a laborer on the railroad, and lodged with the family. The intimacy between the murdered man's wife and Lee was perfectly well-known to Miller. It was that fact that occasioned the ill-feeling that led to his murder. The woman was anxious to continue her relations with Lee and gave her consent to further his plans for getting the husband out of the way. Lee was convicted with but little difficulty. An omission of the prosecuting attorney to prove the corpus delicti, however, resulted in the defendants obtaining a new trial. At that trial the omission was corrected and a verdict of guilty was obtained. The court sentenced the prisoner to be hanged in the county jail yard on Friday, Aug. 3. After his conviction the second time Lee made what he claimed was a full confession of the murder of Miller. In that he declared that the man's wife killed him, and at her solicitation he (Lee) assisted her in dragging the body to the railroad track, just reversing her statement of the manner in which the crime was committed. This confession Lee made oath to. No one, however, put any faith in it. Shortly after his sentence the condemned man joined the Baptist church, and was baptised in the jail-yard. As there was no pool or other means of immersing the convict, a bath-tub was procured and used for that purpose. Lee expressed a perfect willingness to meet his fate, and said the woman, in order to gain friends and save her own neck, had perjured herself and sworn away his life. He became very attentive to religious duties, and was a constant reader of the Bible. A few weeks ago he made a second confession, in which he admitted that he knew that Barbara intended to kill her husband, but insisted that he took no part in the crime except to aid her in carrying the dead body to the railroad. Barbara Miller was tried at a subsequent term of the court for being an accessory before the fact to the murder of David Miller. Her confession made on the trial of Lee was used by the prosecution, and no difficulty was found in convicting her. She was sentenced to be hanged Sept. 3. After her sentance she appealed to the court to permit her only child, a girl of about 13, to occupy her cell with her until her execution. This request was denied her, but the judge gave his consent for the child to visit her mother daily, if she saw fit. The man Lee and Barbara occupied different cells, but often communicated with each other through the officers of the prison. On one occasion the man wrote a note to her begging her to retract her statement implicating him in the murder. This she persistently refused to do, always maintaining that it was he who killed her husband. The condemned woman also joined the church and made a full confession of religion. Since their sentence both of the prisoners were objects of interest to the negroes of the surrounding counties. Hundreds of these have visited the jail to see them and talk with the murderers when permitted by the authorities of the prison.

An Old Chicago Lawyer's Death.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Joel S. Page, who died at his residence, 100 Park avenue, had been a member of the Chicago bar for twenty-six years. He was born in Hawley, Mass., April 26, 1822. He then conducted an academy in Georgia for two years, after which he studied law in Pittsfield, Mass., where he was admitted to the bar and practiced law until 1857. Since then he has been successively associated with Judge Henry L. Bucker and William R. Plum in the law business in this city. He married Miss Lucy V. Chapin, of Stockbridge, Mass., in 1856. His wife and three children survive him.

THE TELEGRAPHERS.

English Operators Arrive in New York---Gould's Views---The London Times on the Strike---At Chicago.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Five operators arrived from England and applied for employment in the Western Union Telegraph office. Four strikers resumed work in Portland, Me. The situation of the telegraph strike is not materially changed. Two strikers returned to work. The Western Union business is being handled promptly.

Mr. Jay Gould, in speaking to an acquaintance about the strike, said that the other great corporations of the country were as much interested in the strike as the Western Union, and that the losses of the Western Union would be made up by those corporations before they would allow the Knights of Labor to gain any advantage. He said also that the company had a surplus of operators and that numbers had been sent to open country offices. When a member of the brotherhood was asked at Clarendon hall what the next move would be, he said: "There is to be no special change in the programme, but the operators in the employ of the Delaware, Lackawana & Western railroad will present a bill of grievances to some officer of the company, presumably the president. The chief feature of the bill will be a demand that they shall not be required to send Western Union messages. If this demand is not granted they will leave their keys." The operator would not say when the strike would begin.

The following is taken from an article in The London Times, July 23, on the strike of the telegraphers:

A kind of high treason is committed by telegraph clerks, as by engine-drivers, or gas-stokers, or policemen when they take advantage of the extreme dependence of the public upon them to put pressure upon their employers by suddenly quitting their desks. At first it seemed that the American telegraph operators had the proper sense of this point of honor. They were within their right in asking better terms of the Western Union company, if they believed the company could afford to yield better terms. They kept faith with the public by attending to their wires. They had permitted it to be understood that they meant to leave the public, as well as the company, ample time to take warning. In changing its policy and ordering several thousand of its men to abandon their functions, the brotherhood has made an irretrievable mistake. Already the Western Union company has shown its possession of resources sufficient to enable it to withstand requisitions it holds to be exorbitant. The one chance for the operators was that the public, which is naturally sympathetic toward their class, would have thrown the moral weight of its good will into their scale. But the public is selfish in such cases. It cannot afford to let its servants fight battles on their own account at the cost of excessive inconvenience to itself. When its officials, whoever they may be, desert their posts, the one 'predominant' wish is that their places may be filled up as speedily as possible with more loyal successors, and that the deserters be forgotten

AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The streets in the vicinity of the strikers' headquarters were dotted with a circular which read as follows: "The laborer is worthy of his hire. Grand picnic and labor demonstration for the benefit of the brotherhood of telegraphers, Sunday, Aug. 5, at Oswald's park, corner of Halsted and Fifty-second streets. Turn out en masse and assist our brothers in their fight for freedom." The strikers showed circulars, which they claimed had been captured by them, and were evidence of the insincerity of the assertion of the company, and will cause a great kick among the men who remained with and went to the company after the strike. The following are the documents in the possession of the brotherhood:

OFFICE SUPERINTENDENT EIGHTH DISTRICT, W. U. T. Co., Minneapolis, July 30.—MANAGER: The circular authorizing an allowance to operators on the rolls at the close of the month of July of the amount of their regular salary from July 16, as a bonus, was intended to apply only to offices where the strike had caused a large increase in the work of our employes and an increased difficulty in handling it. The circular was sent to your office by error, and should be disregarded in making up your account for July.

J. M. MCMICHAEL.

The circular which the strikers claimed was missent, was the following telegram from Gen. Thomas Eckert to Col. R. C. Clowry, under date of New York, July 21: "You are authorized to give notice to such independent Western Union stations as you may select that operators on the rolls at the close of the present month will be credited with and paid for all their work from noon on Monday, July 16, as extra and in addition to their regular salary as bonus."

The press hook at the strikers' headquarters contained a number of reports from all parts of the country giving assurance of the determination of the strikers to stand firm, and also declaring that there was no improvement in the situation of the telegraph company.

The brotherhood was at work taking in all the railroad men who could be induced to join. They say that it will require at least a week to complete the railroad organization. Against the brotherhood the railroads are also making well defined efforts in a quiet way, and they promise to be prepared for any emergency that can be brought about. A railroad manager said to a reporter that he had not the least alarm.

A telegram from New York was received by the Western Union, declaring the report that the operators on lines in Mexico had struck, a false one.

CAREY'S SLAYER.

O'Donnell Committed for Trial---The Final Examination.

LONDON, August 4.—O'Donnell, Informer Carey's murderer, has been committed for trial on the charge of wilful murder. In the ordinary course of events he will be tried at Port Elizabeth assizes, in October.

At the final examination of O'Donnell, a box was produced belonging to the prisoner labeled "Cape Town," and containing a woodcut of Carey and a paper of American citizenship, dated "Toronto, November, 1570." Carey's son was recalled, and denied that Kelly, the Irish passenger on the steamer Kinfauns Castle, was identical with Kavanah. He testified that his father was smiling and talking to O'Donnell, when he (witness) saw the latter draw a revolver and fire one shot. He (witness) then ran to fetch his father's revolver. His mother was holding his father when the third shot was fired. O'Donnell declared that Carey first drew a revolver, which he (O'Donnell) seized and fired at Carey in self-defense. He described himself as Patrick O'Donnell, aged 45, a native of Goodsall, county Donegal, laborer, formerly a butler.

Four persons have been rescued alive srom the ruins of Ischia. People who fled because of a light shock of earthquake returned to find their dwellings plundered.

A Clergyman's Testimony.

W. E. Gifford, pastor M. E. church, Bothwell, Ont., was for two years a sufferer with dyspepsia in its worst form until as he states "life became an actual burden." Three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him, and he tells us in a recent letter that he considers it the best family medicine now before the country for dyspepsia and liver complaint.

POLITICS.

Address of the National Union League---Indiana Politicians Interviewed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—At the annual meeting of the executive committee of the National Union League, in Philadelphia, March 23, Messrs. C. A. Boutelle, William F. Cook, and C. H. Grosvenor were named a committee to prepare an address to the people. The committee, in discharge of that duty, give to the press an address to the people, of which the following is a synopsis:

Entering, as the Republican party has soon to do in many of the states of the union, upon political campaigns, fraught with mighty consequences as affecting the future of the country, it is the hope of the national council of the Union league that the spirit of dissension and bitterness which has been rife in some sections of the union during the past few years may die away and be forgotten.

There is no section of the Republican party whose advent to power in the states and the nation would be as disastrous to the best interests of the country as would that of the Democratic party. There is no shade of opinion held by any respectable number of Republicans in the United States that does not breathe the spirit of liberty, of progress, and of good government in a fuller and better sense than the best utterance, the best inspiration and the best sentiment of the Democratic party to-day. Paramount to all considerations of personal aggrandizement or the advancement of factions, is the demand the country makes upon the Republican party to see to it that the reins of government be not wrested from its hands.

Therefore, it is that, reiterating the utterances of our constituents, we appeal to the Republicans of the country that factions cease among them, that the potent voice of the people speak to the waves of discord everywhere and command them to be still. We utter no word of crimination against our brethren of any phase of political sentiment. We neither discuss or decide any question that has been one of difference between us. We look upon them all, whether aiming at personal preferment or representing diversity of political views, as immaterial and unimportant when weighed in the balance against the consequences of democratic ascendancy.

The address then goes on to enumerate the "political errors, failures, blunders and crimes of the Democratic party," in the course of which it calls attention to its attitude during the war and since, and its position upon all the public questions which have come up in the last 25 years, and been settled in opposition to the line of policy adopted by that party. The history of the Republican party is summarized and eulogized, and the fact of its championship of protection referred to, and contrasted with the doctrine of the Democratic party on that subject. The address closes as follows: "The issue immediately before the American people is a simple one: shall the Democratic party, with its history, its career, and the purposes they so unmistakably indicate, be brought into power without any guaranty, without even a promise of better government in the future? And shall this beautiful country, with all these splendid institutions, the handiwork of Republican administrations, be turned over to the blighting sirocco of Democratic rapacity? Or shall the Republican party, reindorsed by the American people, reinstructed from the source of all political power and intelligence—the voice of the people—be recommissioned to go forward in its great work, and continue to guide the nation upon its glorious pathway to ultimate perfection?"

INDIANA POLITICS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Hon. Rufus McGee, of Indiana, state senator, and for six years secretary of the Democratic central committee, is at the Grand Pacific hotel.

"All the talk about Hendricks and McDonald being unfriendly," said the senator, "is the height of absurdity. They are on the best of terms, and are really in no sense rivals. There is no doubt that McDonald will have the solid support of the Indiana delegation, and if there is any instruction the convention will instruct for him. There is no talk, to amount to anything, about the old ticket. To what extent this sentiment is prevalent outside of Indiana I do not know, but I hope McDonald will be nominated."

"What do you hear about candidates for governor?"

"Ex-Lieut. Gov. Gray wants the nomination pretty badly, and he has an equal chance with several others, but no more. Ex-Senator Turpie is spoken of, but the most interesting phase of the matter, of recent development, is the talk of Senator Voorhees for the position."

"Would he accept the nomination?"

"Perhaps you are not aware of the fact that we in Indiana are accustomed to compel unwilling candidates who may be thought to be available. The party coerced Mr. Hendricks into the governorship twice when he absolutely refused to be a candidate."

"Who will be the Republic nominee?"

"There are a number spoken of. Congressman Calkins is becoming a formidable candidate, but, if Gresham should take a notion that he wanted to be governor, he would be nominated by acclamation."

"What are the prospects for next year?"

"If they will let us alone and keep their money out of Indiana we will carry the state without a doubt. I have calculated the relative increase in the voters of the two parties for several years very carefully, and the Democrats clearly outnumber the Republicans. Last year there were 22,000 Democrats who staid at home, and yet we carried the state by about 13,000 majority. If they will only let us alone we can't help but win, for we have the votes, and what more do we want?"

ANOTHER VIEW.

"The time has gone by when the Democrats can carry Indiana," said Congressman R. B. F. Peirce, of the Eighth district of that state. "We will be able to elect a Republican president easier than we did Garfield. The electoral vote for the state will be cast for the Republican nominee, depend upon it."

"Who do the Republicans of Indiana think it will be?"

"They are not selfish, but are nursing several 'favorite sons,' nevertheless."

"And they are?"

"Senator Ben Harrison, Postmaster General Gresham, and Gov. Porter."

"Are any of these gentlemen getting in trim for the race—notifying their friends, for instance?"

"They are not active candidates as yet, but then it is known that 'Barkis is willin',' you know."

"What makes you think that Indiana is going back on its old-time record as a Democratic state?"

"Well, in the first place, the Democracy of the state is hopelessly divided on the tariff. McDonald, confine it as you may, is felt to be a free-trader at heart, while Voorhees has taken a different tack. The Republicans are square-toed on that question—in favor of a protective tariff, and nothing short of it."

"Oh, my back!" is a common exclamation and expresses a world of misery and suffering. It is singular this pain arises from such various causes. Kidney disease, liver complaint, wasting affectings, colds, rheumatism, dyspepsia, overwork and nervous debility are chief causes. When thus ailing seek prompt relief. It can be found best in Brown's Iron Bitters. It builds up from the foundation by making the blood rich and pure. Leading physicians and ministers use and recommend it. It has cured many, and if you are a sufferer try it.

Mr. John Myer, Sheboygan, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for rheumatism and pains and am now well."

Mrs. G. F. Henzellman, Johnsonville, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for heart disease, weakness, general decline, etc., and feel like a new person."

THE FAITH CONVENTION.

Alleged Cures of Chronic Diseases by Faith and Dr. Cullis's Healing Oil.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 4.—The faith convention held here was even more interesting than that of last year. Dr. Chas. Cullis, of Boston, continued to anoint the lame, the halt and the blind with healing oil, which, if the faith be sufficient, it is claimed, will conquer all diseases. Persons treated made a report of their experience at the next day's meeting. The most remarkable of the 300 reports was that of Miss Ruth, of Rahway, N. J. For twenty years she has been almost stone deaf. She ascribed all honor and glory to God for a miraculous cure. She attended the healing meeting and as she was leaving she felt first an itching sensation, then a crackling sound in her ears, and suddenly the voice of the speaker burst upon her as though shouted through a trumpet. She declares she can hear as well as ever. Several others who had been suffering from long-standing cases declared that they had been completely cured. Others announced an improvement in their condition, and still others could detect no change for the better.

The healing meetings were held in the afternoon, and resemble gatherings of hospital convalescents. Among the 300 invalids several were in an unredeemed state, as appeared by a question by Dr. Cullis, and a season of prayer was held that they might accept God's redeeming love before seeking a cure. The services were opened by singing "She touched the hem of His garment," after which the 103d Psalm was read by Dr. Cullis. "Now let us give ourselves wholly to God," said the Doctor, and another season of prayer was begun, at the close of which Dr. Cullis retired to a room, where he met individually each person desiring to be healed. The first person to pass into the smaller room was a woman over 80 years of age. Others followed at intervals of about three-fourths of a minute—first those who were too faint to remain until the meeting should close, next those who would have to take the next train, and then those sitting in the rows of settees nearest the door. When they came out they took seats on the opposite side of the room.

While this exercise was going on the people in the assembly room were addressed and encouraged to full belief in the fulfillment of God's promises. "There are three conditions," said Mr. O. E. Mallory, to be heeded, "First, hope for deliverance must be based on God's word; second, settlement of the question whether you are ready to fulfil the conditions the word requires, and to the full of your ability, these conditions being obedience to God and entire submission to his word; third, all desires for your health must be for God's glory. There must be total dedication to God, as He will not give you health that you may use it for lust.

After about 150 persons had returned from meeting Dr. Cullis, an opportunity came for testimonies as to what God had already done for them. Very many declared that they had already received aid, and others claimed to have obtained the healing desired. It is proposed, however, to make the Faith convention at Old Orchard an annual event, and permanent grounds have been secured for the purpose.

NO WAR ANTICIPATED.

All the Roads Selling St. Louis Tickets for $6.50---No Further Reduction Likely.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—There has been an agreement for a year past between the Chicago & Alton, Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific, Illinois Central and Vandalia roads to maintain passenger rates between Chicago and St. Louis. The fare had been fixed at $8. For the last few weeks the Illinois Central has been selling through tickets to St. Louis for $6.50, after having warned the other roads of its withdrawl from the pool. The Alton and Wabash roads have decided to reduce the regular rates to St. Louis to $6.50 also, and to all tickets at that rate over the counters.

The representatives of the Illinois Central declare that the roads mentioned agree to maintain rates between Chicago and St. Louis as fixed by a commissioner appointed by them. This commissioner has never been appointed, and while the other roads were nominally selling tickets for $8, scalpers on the street were disposing of tickets over their lines between St. Louis and Chicago for $6.50. To meet this virtual reduction the Illinois Central found it necessary to take the steps mentioned. It could not be called "cutting rates," nor was any war of rates at all likely to occur. The other roads had been really carrying passengers at $6.50 between Chicago and St. Louis, so that this step was absolutely forced upon the Illinois Central.

It was learned at the offices of the Alton and Wabash roads that the reduction had been made simply to meet the "cut" of the Illinois Central. No war of rates was anticipated.

A SENATOR SLIGHTED.

How the Louisville Exposition People Overlooked Senator Beck.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—The Enquirer has the following from Louisville: Quite a flutter of dissatisfaction broke out in certain sociable and political circles when the discovery was made that Senator Beck, whose influence actually secured the president's visit to the exposition opening, has been entirely ignored by interested parties upon that occasion, although he was present. It appears that the senator, not being invited to a seat with the other great statesmen and not being invited to take a conspicuous part in the reception of the president's party, kept in the background and took a retired seat. This terrible oversight on the part of whosever business it was to extend the courtesies necessary to such a distinguished man as Senator Beck, is being condemned in bitter tones all over the city, and it is said is being smothered under, but it will eventually break out.

The President Unbends.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—At the Grand Pacific hotel, in this city, where the president stopped as he passed through, among other distinguished men who visited the chief magistrate was Senator Logan.

"Why, how are you, old fellow?" he said to Senator Logan, putting his hands on the latter's shoulders. "See here, I thought you were going along with us. Can't you! Come, now, I don't want any one to go back on my administration in that way."

"I can't go this time, Mr. President," was Gen. Logan's response to this cheery, hearty greeting. "I'm on an Indian committee and have got to look into the Indian question up in the Northwest."

"And if here isn't 'Long' Jones, continued the president, as he shook hands with the elongated United States marshal. "Well, Jones, I don't see that you are any shorter." And Jones, who couldn't do anything else, pleaded gently and said he didn't want to be.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. * * * Many of those medicines came out of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. * * * Very few of them, we believe are humbugs and frauds in the conscientious or the intent of their makers. * * * The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if human testimony is good for anything, that fact is established. —Scribner's Monthly.

His Soul and His Silver.

"You're asking me how I came to use it, reminds me of the story of the Scotchman who, on his deathbed, after a life of meanness, wanted to make things all right with the Lord by leaving some money to kirk."

"Will the Almighty pass me into heaven if I give 10,000 pounds to the kirk, d'ye think, said he?"

"'I can't promise ye thot, mon,' answered the minister, 'but I advise ye to try the experiment.'"

Laughing heartily at the story, Rev. F. E. Osborne, No. 278 Ogden avenue, Jersey City, pastor of the First Baptist Church, West Hoboken continued:

"That's what I did with PARKER'S TONIC: I tried the experiment. It more than met my expectations, and I am very glad to testify to its excellence. It goes at once to the root of all digestive and nervous derangements so common among men of my profession. For women and chronic invalids the Tonic is a perfect invigorant and is designed to supplant all other remedies for this purpose. A single dose produces the gentle perspiration and sense of life, which eradicates disease. It seems to rouse every organ into activity. I admire it, too, for its power to antagonize the hold of the liquor habit over inebriates."

This preparation which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC will hereafter be called PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers with inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles in the hands of dealers wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of Hiscox & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

If you will buy and use a

OF THE

Medical and Surgical

INSTITUTE

Late Lecturer and Professor in one of the leading medical colleges in the United States, editor of the New York Medical and Surgical Journal, consulting physician and operative surgeon in the New York Hospital for Chronic Diseases, Physician in Chief of the Medical and Surgical Institute of Cedar Rapids.

ON ACCOUNT OF HIS

Immense Practice

IN

Janesville, Wis.,

WILL MAKE HIS NEXT VISIT AT THE

MYERS HOUSE,

Wednesday, August 29th.

And Remain Two Days

When he can be consulted on

Deformities,

Spinal and

Chronic Diseases.

Dr. Fishblatt

Has discovered the greatest cure in the world for weakness of the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, paleness of sight or giddiness, diseases of the throat, nose or skin, affections of the liver, lungs stomach, or bowels,—those terrible disorders arising from solitary practice more fatal to their victims than the songs of the sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible.

YOUNG MEN.

Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, who might, if otherwise, entrance listening senates with the thunder of their eloquence, or wake to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness (loss of procreation power, impotency,) nervous debility or any other disqualifications speedily relieved. He who places himself under the care of Dr. Fishblatt may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

Organic

WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This affliction—which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victim of improper indulgence. Young persons are apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands this subject will deny that procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both mind and body arise. The system becomes deranged, the physical and mental functions weakened, loss of procreative power, nervous irritability, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constitutional debility, wasting of the frame, cough, consumption and death

A Cure Warranted.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders who keep them trifling month after month, taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately.

Dr. Fishblatt

Graduated at one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at certain sounds, with frequent blushing, attended somewhat with derangement of the mind, were cured immediately.

Particular Notice.

"Dr. F. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruins both mind and body, unfitting them for business, study, society, marriage. These are some of the sad, melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, namely: Weakness in the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of sight, loss of musical power, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, nervous irritability, derangement of the digestive functions, debility consumption, etc.

OFF FOR THE WEST.

The President at Chicago--An Informal Reception--The Departure for the Yellowstone Valley.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—President Arthur and party rose rather late in the morning, and it was nearly 11 o'clock before any of the callers had an opportunity to pay their respects to the chief executive. After breakfast a delegation of federal officers made their appearance. They were Judges Drummond and Blodget, Commissioner Hoyne, Postmaster Palmer, United States Marshal Jones, Collector Harvey, and Clerk Bradley, of the United States supreme court. Ex-Congressman Farwell held a few minutes' private conversation with the president, and then the stream of callers began to arrive. Among them were William Penn Nixon, Edmond Bruwaert, French consol; Congressman Barrows, of Michigan; District Attorney Leak, J. R. Hitt, W. M. Brainerd, B. H. Campbell, Anton C. Hosing, Louis Bauch, T. C. Moore, Congressman Henderson, William J. Howland, A. M. Tucker, W. H. Harper, J. H. Murphy, T. P. Robb, Potter Palmer, J. W. Doane, Willis Howe, Capt. S. M. Emmons, Senator H. L. Dawes, ex-Senator Doolittle and son, W. Birdsall, C. H. Parker, Henry G Young, H. Monroe, Special Agent John Douglas, ex-Alderman Gilbert, and others. After half an hour spent in handshaking the party prepared to depart, and President Arthur was escorted by John B. Drake through the corridors to the La Salle street entrance of the hotel, the other members following in the rear. Four carriages were driven to the curb and filled by the party. The first vehicle was occupied by President Arthur, Secretary Lincoln, Judge Gresham, and Mr. J. B. Drake; the second by Gen. Phil Sheridan, Surrogate Rollins, Anson Stager, and Surgeon Forwood; the third by Private Secretary Phillips, Col. Mike Sheridan, and Senator Vest and son, and the fourth by Secretary Folger, Jesse Spalding, and Postmaster Palmer. They drove at once to the Chicago & Northwestern depot, departing from the hotel without any demonstrations on the part of the one hundred or more individuals who had gathered to get a glimpse of the president. A large crowd had gathered at the depot, and it greeted the appearance of the president with cheers. A squad of policemen were on hand, and they found much difficulty in clearing the way for the party. The special train, consisting of three handsome coaches, soon backed into the depot, and the president entered the rear car, which had been reserved specially for him. It was a Union Pacific coach and the private car of President Sidney Dillon. A large and beautiful bouquet, the gift of Collector Spalding, was handed the president on his entrance. There were loud calls for Arthur while the train was standing, but he did not respond. It moved out from the depot at two or three minutes before 12, and then the president appeared on the rear platform and bowed his acknowledgments to the crowd. Besides the president there were on board Secretary Lincoln, Surrogate Rollins, Gen. Anson Stager, Surgeon Forwood, Senator Vest, Gen. Phil Sheridan, Col. Mike Sheridan, General Supt. Layng and Division Superintendent Murray, of the Northwestern railway. The train was in charge of Conductor John L. Kellogg. It was expected to make the run to Council Bluffs at the rate of about thirty-five miles an hour, there being no need of greater speed. Each car was furnished with its own kitchen, cook and servants.

The Profession a Unit.

MR. C. H. DRAPER, of No. 223, Main Street, Worcester, Mass., volunteers the following:

"Having occasion recently to use a remedy for kidney disease, I applied to my druggist, Mr. D. B. Williams, of Lincoln Square, this city, and requested him to furnish me the best kidney medicine that he knew of, and he handed me a bottle of Hunt's Remedy, stating that it was considered the best because he had sold many bottles of it to his customers in Worcester, and they all speak of it in the highest terms, and pronounce it always reliable. I took the bottle home and commenced taking it, and find that it does the work effectually; and I am pleased to recommend to all who have kidney or liver disease the use of Hunt's Remedy, the sure cure."

April 11, 1883.

MR. GEORGE A. BURDETT, No. 16 Front Street, Worcester, Mass., has just sent us the following, directly to the point:

"Being afflicted with ailments to which all humanity is subject sooner or later, I read carefully the advertisement regarding the remarkable curative powers of Hunt's Remedy, and as it seemed to apply to my case exactly, I purchased a bottle of the medicine at Jannery's drug store in this city, and having used it with most beneficial results in my own case, my wife and son also commenced its use, and it has most decidedly improved their health, and we shall continue its use in our family under such favorable results."

April 17, 1883.

Druggist's Evidence.

Mr. George W. Holcomb, druggist, 129 and 131 Congress street, Troy, N. Y., writes April 7, 1883:

"I am constantly selling Hunt's Remedy for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder, and urinary organs, to my trade and friends, and find that it gives general satisfaction to all who use it."

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY.

How Pennsylvania Had a Narrow Escape From Getting the National Capital.

Burlington Hawkeye.

My son, the star-route trials came within a very few votes of being tried in the state of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia was clamorous to have both the star-route and the Guiteau trial held in that city of brotherly love. So was Lancaster, Penn., and Wilmington, Del. In 1779, on the 22d of September, the house of representatives passed a bill authorizing the president to appoint three commissioners to select the most eligible situation on the banks of the Susquehanna river, in the state of Pennsylvania, for the permanent seat of government in the United States. The vote was 31 yeas, 17 nays. On the same day the bill was sent to the senate, which body, by a vote of 11 to 7 struck out the "convenient place on the banks of the Susquehanna." Then a motion to insert "the river Potomac" was lost; another amendment, inserting "the counties of Philadelphia, Chester and Bucks, in the state of Pennsylvania," was a tie, 9 to 9, and Vice President John Adams cast his vote for Pennsylvania—and thus amended the bill went back to the house, where, after a little debate, the senate amendment was concurred in and one amendment added by Madison, providing that the operation of the laws of Pennsylvania in the district ceded should not be affected until otherwise provided by law. When the bill went back to the senate for its concurrence in this amendment the influence of Washington and Jefferson, who favored the Potomac site, was sufficient to have the whole subject laid over to the next session of congress, and Pennsylvania was left. But, then, Pennsylvania owes no grudge against Madison for his fatal resolution, because she doesn't need the capital. She has all the oil wells in the world, and there isn't room in one state for Bradford and Washington.

How Uncle Jeff Cured a Dude.

Salem (La.) Vidette.

"How could I cure a dude, young fellow! Well, I'll tell yer, so as yes can sell the receipt. A chap with such a receipt ought ter make a pile outen it.

"Yer see, my boy Dan took a notion three or four years ago es farmin' wasn't good enough for him, so I give him a note on a Baptist preacher for $400 and let him go. He went to 'Frisco and struck the preacher and got the cash. Then he got some edication and went counter-jumpin' and cum up to Oregon.

"He was purty steady and sensible, though I heered he was fine on dress, but I had no idee he had got to be a dude.

"Wall, he got bounced for bein' goodlookin', he says, but I spect it was bein' too sassy and lazy, an' he cum up to see the folks.

"When I got ter the depot there was Dan'l, but I hardly know'd him. His pants was a kind of speckled sky blue, and were as tight on him as the skin on a fat hog; and his coat was about three sizes too small for him, an' as tight as the pants, with the color of a yeller dog. He had a fancy brass watch staked out with two chains on his vest; he had a stiff little hat, a little cane and a pair of gloves. He limped up to me in a pair of pinched-up shoes, held out two fingers to shake, and said: 'Aw, Paw, aw'm dem glad to see yer, yer know.' I got him in the wagon as quick as I could, for fear the folks would think I was moving lunatics to the new asylum. He said suthin' about the team being very ancient an' the wagon the color of the road an' the harmony of nature. Well, that feller slid round the house for more than a week, and went down town showin' off his clothes, but he wouldn't do no work. I thought maybe he would come to his senses after a bit, but he kept on just the same. He went down to the wood lot with me and the boys to see 'Nature in her wild beauty,' or something of that sort, one morning while we got er load of wood.

"I got him to give me a lift with a log to chuck it in the wagon, but when he ought to have chucked it in he let his end drop, and then that made my end set quick onto my off foot. While I was cussin' about my foot he drawled out suthin' about its being too heavy, and grinned sideways to the boys. I couldn't stand that, and I went for him. I don't remember exactly how it went clare through, but in about five minutes that ground was covered with rags, and silk handkerchiefs and pinted shoes like a tornader had been to work. His two-chained watch was hanging in a lot of oak sprouts, the pup had run off with his stiff hat, and he was wiping his nose with his kid gloves, white strips of his pants hung ter his waistband like ribbons on a trick mule. The cane was broke to pieces over his back, and three or four switches besides. Oh, he felt better than he had for four years, an' we loaned him a buffalo hide to get home in an' cum up with the wood. He laid abed for two days, an' then got inside of a pair of overhauls and a flannel shirt, put a pair of brogans outside his feet, grabbed an old hat and went to work, an' has worked as steady as a clock er ticken over since."

The Cost of a Cottage at the Seaside.

"Gath" in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Talking to Warren Leland, the former proprietor of the Metropolitan hotel, and now of the Ocean House at Long Branch:

"What do you think about the growth of Long Branch?" asked I.

"It is steady, and that is what it ought to be, instead of being speculative. The place has already reached proportions I never expected to see, and the increase of cottages and improvements is now that of a considerable city. Every year cottage life is always tempting new people into it and rooting out the old cottagers, and thus the number of houses built bears small proportion to the newcomers, most of whom hire the cottages of those who are tired. There are a great many drawbacks to cottage life at the seaside. You must have a stableman, and, generally, a pantryman, a cook, one or more chambermaids and a valet, and they are expecting in the short season to do well by you. So do the milkman, the butter man, the grocer, the ice man, the butcher—whoever comes to your cottage door—says to himself, 'It is no sin to skin these rich cottagers.' Hence the expense of a house that is at all roomy or showy is out of all proportion to the pleasure of a hotel life, expensive as it is, compared to cottage life."

Said I: "What is John Hoey going to do with all those elaborate and unrented cottages he has built?"

"Hoey loves to build houses, and has so much taste," said Mr. Leland, "in that respect that he will some day, perhaps in another year, establish a cottage hotel settlement like the Elberon. One of his cottages there has thirty-two rooms in it, and is big enough for a hotel. The professional cottage-builders at Long Branch," said Mr. Leland, "expect to get one-third of the cost of a cottage in the rent of it for the first summer. I think that Long Branch had better grow moderately instead of too rapidly."

Effect of the Climate

Washington Republican.

Dakota has a peculiar climate. A cannon burst at a Fourth of July celebration in Fergus Falls, and the four pieces into which it flew went in four directions. Each piece crashed into a saloon.

"What's the matter with baby, doctor?" "Colic, madam. Use Brown's Teething Cordial."

Threw Away His Crutches.

"Suffered from rheumatism so badly had to use crutches, but threw them away after applying Thomas' Eclectric Oil to my limbs. I now feel better than I have for years." F. L. Gibbs, 230 Elk street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOPE FOR THE

BALD

The Roots do not come out when the Hair leaves the Skin.

It has always been supposed that after the head became glazed and shiny it was hopeless to expect any hair. The following cut showing the growth of the hair, will illustrate better than words the fallacy of the old idea. This cut is a microscopic view of the follicle and papilla, from which the hair grows:

"It will be readily seen that though the hair is gone from the surface it is still alive healthy beneath the scalp, and is only prevented from growing by the contraction of the follicle in which it should grow.

How The Hair Grows on the Bald Head!

We apply friction to bring the blood to the surface and supply the scalp with a perfect hair-food to nourish the weak roots. We do not profess to grow hair on every head. Some from the use of alcoholic and poisonous preparations have destroyed the follicle. These cases are hopeless, but so rare that no one one should be discouraged from using one bottle of

Benton's Hair Grower,

as this will demonstrate whether the follicle and roots are alive, and will also STRENGTHEN the remaining hair, stop its FALLING OUT, and cure DANDRUFF and ITCHING

I HAVE USED BENTON'S HAIR GROWER!

John B. Taylor, (one of the heirs to the immese Taylor estate), of Newport, Ky., says of the Benton Hair Grower: "I have used it and find it all that is claimed for it; I like it very much, it has grown hair on my head to some extent."

BENTON HAIR GROWER CO. Dear Sirs:—About a year ago one-half of my head was bald and shiny, and as bare as the palm of my hand. I was told by physicians that it would be impossible for hair to grow on my head, as I had suffered so much from neuralgia. I am over sixty years of age, and began to use your Hair Grower less than a year ago. I have now as good a head of hair as I ever had in youth, it is now from five to six inches in length and in such a luxuriant condition that no one would think I had ever been bald.

MRS. C. M. WILD, 118 Clinton St., Cleveland, O.

PARTIAL BALDNESS!

Baldness generally commences on the crown of the head, sometimes on the front of the head. In either case it is usually the result of fevers. If BENTON'S HAIR GROWER is used at once, the falling hair will stop and new hair will start.

A Special Study for Years.

—:o:—

Dr. F. B. BREWER,

Has made Chronic Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach. Liver, Kidneys, Nerves and Blood.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfully chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years' of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to F. B. BREWER, M. D., Lock Box 350, Chicago, Ill.

Dr. F. B. Brewer will be at Janesville, Myers house, Saturday and Sunday the 1st and 2d of September.

Brieflets.

—Bower City band in the park.

—The soldiers will be here next week.

—Only one additional dog license issued to-day.

—There was no criminal business in the municipal court to-day.

—Remember the band concert in the court house park this evening.

—Regular meeting of the common council on Monday evening.

—Mr. E. W. Vanderlyn has commenced repainting the interior of the court house.

—Quite a number of Janesville people went to Geneva Lake to-day to spend Sunday.

—Mr. R. M. Bostwick is making some important improvements on his residence in the third ward.

☞—The search for the body of little Willie Hines still continues, but it will probably not be recovered until it comes to the surface.

—Mr. A. J. Glass, who has been sick with inflammation of the bowels, is reported very low to-day, and his intimate friends are alarmed concerning his recovery.

—Our sportsmen who are "dying" for a hunt ought to go up to Janesville and shoot unchecked dogs, of which there are said to be in that city over 500 now ripe for the dog-killer.—Beloit Free Press.

—A couple of ladies were out in the country lately, and happened to pass by a farm where a reaping machine was at work, when one of them called the others attention to "that threshing machine run by a wind mill."

—There will be preaching in German in the Sunday school room of the Court street M. E. church to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, by the pastor of the German M. E. church, of Fort Atkinson. All are cordially invited.

—An old relic of earlier days—the office sign, marked "J. W. D. PARKER'S OFFICE," which occupied a prominent place in this city twenty-five or thirty years ago—is now at one of the second hand stores in this city. The sign is well preserved.

—A prominent gentleman in this city left an order for a new door at the shops of Messrs. Shopbell & Norris, being very particular regarding its size, as it was to fit casings already up. The measurements as handed in with the order were as follows:—"6 feet 20½ inches by 2 feet 17½ inches." The mechanics are having a good laugh on the expert figures, or odd size of the door.

—Heywood's New York Mastodons—This great troupe of 30 performers will appear in Janesville, Aug. 7. They travel in a special car of their own. Our exchanges speak of them in the most flattering terms, and pronounce their entertainment first-class in its line. There are no long interludes, but a constant chain of interesting, delightful and side-splitting performances. Let all attend.

—Mr. Francis Penneycook, of the town of Janesville, met with a severe accident this morning by which he broke his left collar bone. He was engaged in putting a bridle on one of his horses, and in some manner the horse threw him against the stall with such force that the collar bone was broken as above. Mr. Penneycook came to the city shortly after the accident occurred, and Drs. Judd & Son attended to his injuries.

—A case of careless shooting occurred in the fourth ward last evening, by which a little girl was hit by a stray shot, the shot taking effect in her knee. A boy by the name of Vanvranken was shooting at a target, when the little girl, (whose name we did not learn,) who happened to be on the opposite side of the street, was hit by a stray shot as above. The little girl was brought up town and the wound properly attended to.

—A large number of the Lake Monona visitors returned home to-day, among whom we notice Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wheelock, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Echlin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cunningham, Mrs. S. B. Clemons and daughter, Miss Beatrice Gilmore, Dr. L. J. Barrows, A. H. Sheldon. They all report having had an excellent time, one long to be remembered. The Monona assembly has been well attended, and the excellent programme arranged for the occasion was faithfully carried out. The assembly will close on Monday.

—"Yank" Adams, general manager of the Chicago Sporting and Theatrical Journal, is in the city working up an interest for that valuable paper in Janesville. At the request of many friends Mr. Adams has consented to give an exhibition of his peculiar method of manipulating the ivory balls at the Myers house billiard hall this evening. This will be an interesting event to all lovers of the billiard game. After getting through his business here, Mr. Adams will return to Chicago to consult an occulist in regard to his eyes which his friends will regret to hear are not in good condition.

—The members of Washington engine company No. 1 are completing their arrangements for one of the best dancing parties of the season, which will take place in the Rifles' armory on Friday evening of next week. Anderson's full orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music, and Mr. George Shurtleff will provide the supper, which is a sufficient guarantee that everything will be the best. The boys are determined to have a grand good dance, and all who attend will be cordially received and entertained in the best possible manner.

—Turner, the photographer, having sold out his gallery in Eldred's block, has taken charge of the Green gallery, lately occupied by Scotford, West Milwaukee street, where he will hereafter be found ready to satisfy all who desire the best pictures. Mr. Turner has secured the services of a first class artist to retouch negatives, and is confident that he is now able to produce the best pictures. Mr Turner has some fine specimens of his work on exhibition, all sizes, and he invites the public to call at his new gallery, as it costs nothing to examine specimens of his work, and he will be glad to welcome all. Remember the place, Green's old gallery, West Milwaukee street over Hammerschlag's tobacco store.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Little Georgie McDonald Falls into Rock River and is Rescued by Messrs. George and Warren Barlow.

This forenoon, about half-past nine o'clock, a party of small boys were at play in the rear of Mr. Phillips' barn at the east end of Court street bridge; a couple of the boys, one of whom was little George McDonald, about seven years of age, son of Mrs. J. E. McDonald, residing on Wall street, first ward, were gathering up some excelsior which was floating down the river near the shore. Little McDonald, with a little more courage, or recklessness than the other boys, ventured out on a pile of manure, which was partly in the river, the better to reach the passing excelsior, while on the side of the manure pile and reaching out for the excelsior, he slid off in the deep water and went down. Parties who happened to be on the bridge saw the boy go down and immediately gave the alarm. Mr. George Barlow, who is employed in the barn immediately jumped into the water and caught the boy just as the little fellow disappeared for the last time, and held on to him until his brother Warren Barlow swam to his assistance. Little McDonald, when brought to the bank was strangled, but he was immediately placed upon a barrel and the water allowed to run from his lungs. After he was brought to himself, Mr. Nelson hitched up a horse and took him to his home.

Every one who witnessed the accident speak in great praise of the heroic and timely action of Mr. George Barlow and his brother Warren, for had it not been for them another sad case of drowning would have been added to the record.

Parents cannot be too careful in allowing their children, especially those of such tender years, to play at will on the river bank, and yet with all the sad warnings, it is a wonder that no more such accidents occur, as small boys are continually at play in these dangerous places.

RUNAWAYS.

Narrow Escape of Mr. F. S. Eldred and Daughter.

This afternoon about two o'clock, a horse belonging to Mr. J. D. Ehle, and attached to his wagon used for the delivery of groceries, started on a run from Mr. Ehle's residence on Cornelia street, second ward. The horse came down town at a lively rate of speed, turning into Main street from North Second, and down Main street to the M. E. church block, where it was stopped, the horse and wagon not being injured. While passing Shaw's restaurant, the runaway horse frightened the heavy team attached to one of Mr. J. H. Gateley's ice wagons which was backed up to Mr. Shaw's for the purpose of delivering ice. This team started on a brisk run, turning for Milwaukee street bridge. As all this was going on, Mr. F. S. Eldred in company with his daughter Adah, had just turned the corner of Milwaukee street going west, when he saw the runaway coming, and hurried up his horse. Drawing the horse and buggy close into the sidewalk in front of H. Hemming & Son's shoe store, where he thought he was safe. Mr. Gateley's team with the heavy ice wagon turned the same corner and were making for the bridge, crowding close to the Mr. Eldred's buggy. It was now too late to get out of the way, and everybody expected that a terrible if not fatal collission would occur. Luckily, for Mr. Eldred and his daughter, the wagon just struck their buggy, smashing one wheel, and breaking the thills. Mr. and Miss Eldred were thrown violently to the ground, but were not seriously injured.

Mr. Gateley's team was stopped in front of the Rock county National bank, by the off horse falling into the gutter, the pole breaking, and bruising one of the horses legs.

While the runaway was an exciting one, it was very fortunate that no more serious results followed those above noted, as everyone who witnessed the affair expected some one would be killed in the smash up.

Tobacco Review.

From the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter.

From sales appended below it will be seen that there is quite a brisk demand for '82 crop of Wisconsin leaf wherever it can be found remaining in first hands. Packers who bought sparingly of the late crop, being suspicious of it as profitable investment, begin to realize that their modesty was a false one and now are able to see where they got left. The packings that have been sampled here show that the '82 crop is coming out of the sweat in fine condition and those dealers who now control the crop will realize good margins on their investment. Late sales made in eastern markets of Wisconsin leaf are most encouraging to western dealers and growers as well. Wisconsin leaf is largely sought after and good prices are being obtained. The indications are that the entire crop will pass into the hands of the manufacturers before the present growth will be ready for market. The following sales of the '82 crop have been made in the vicinity of McFarland during the past week:

F. Putnam, 7 cases of wrappers at 10c, 4 cases of binders at 4c; W. H. McFarland, 12 cases of wrappers at 11c and 6 cases of binders at 5c; McFarland & Olesen, 4 cases of wrappers at 10c and 3 cases of binders at 2c; E. Eighmy, 6 cases of wrappers 11c, 3 cases binders 4c, 2 cases fillers 2c; H. S. & G. F. Pomeroy, of Fulton, 23 cases wrappers at 17½c, 5 cases binders at 5c and 4 cases fillers at 2c: Pomeroy & Pelton to Wm. P. Bentley 46 cases wrappers at 13c, 14 cases binders at 5c, 14 cases fillers at 2c.

The growing crop, under the influence of fine weather, is now making rapid progress. A few of the earlier set fields are ready for topping. There is however a good deal of small tobacco in the country that will need careful attention if it properly matures.

A FORBIDDEN TOPIC.

An Attempt to Interview the President Which Failed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Among those who obtained admission to the president's room at the Grand Pacific were a number of newspaper reporters, all more or less desirous of getting his views politically. One of them after some conversation said:

"Judging from the testimony of people passing through Chicago, Mr. President, your administration is meeting with considerable popular favor."

The president picked up his ears, evidently suspected that the remark was a "leader" which would be followed up by something more trenching on the domain of politics, and with a sort of "you-can't-catch-me-that-way" air, parried the thrust with a modest "Yes! Well I am glad to hear it."

"And," continued the reporter, beginning where he left off, "is this apt to bring to you considerable support in ——"

"Ah," interjected the president, "you really must excuse me. I make it a habit not to talk politics to you gentlemen of the press. When I have anything to say to the country I shall probably say it in black and white. By the way, I hope you are not interviewing me—I believe that is the word—or intending to quote what I have been saying. Do you know, I dislike very much to open a newspaper in the morning and find a column or so of a conversation with me printed in it." The president then closed the conversation.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

A Movement in the Direction of Higher Rates.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—At a meeting of the directors of the Postal Telegraph company, Mr. Hugh J. Jewett astonished the board by urging the adoption of a higher tariff for messages. The present rate, he held, was too low. There was considerable opposition to his proposed increase of tariff. Some of the directors expressed surprise that Mr. Jewett should advocate higher rates. They did not hesitate, it is said, to put their suspicions into plain and forcible language. No change in the proposed tariff was made. It was hinted in Wall street that some of the directors might resign. President Erhardt after the meeting said that he did not care to speak about it, and Vice President Cummins said that only routine business had been transacted. Mr. Jewett, who is one of the trustees in whose hands the control of the stock was placed recently, declined to discuss the company's affairs. A member of the board said that the company lacked organization. "It looked," he said, "as if the former friends of the company would be unable to fulfill their promises."

Some More Consolidation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The Graphic says: "There is a growing impression among the railroad men that the Vanderbilt party has encouraged the decline in New York Central, and are desirous of seeing it sell below Lake Shore for the purpose of preparing the way for a consolidation of the two companies, which can not be accomplished so long as the New York Central is selling higher than Lake Shore. The bulls say that if this consolidation can be accomplished it will be the start of a big bull movement in the Vanderbilt stocks."

Frozen to Death.

CAPE LOOKOUT, N. B., Aug. 4.—Three days ago an immense iceberg floated past here. Three pilots went to it in boats, and found a Greenland kayak, or boat, on it, with the frozen body of an Esquimaux lying inside. The body was brought ashore and buried.
